

Greetings fellow PRI clinicians:

In the last several months, strides have been taken to return Protonics to a manufacturing status.

I am very excited about this and hope many of you are also. We are running out of systems for three simple reasons; new systems are not being made, old systems are breaking down, and the systems that are still working are rapidly being sold online. Our clinic itself uses 11 units that it checks out to patients.

A Protonics system does have a shelf life, so it is imperative that we have the ability to order more. The company who currently has control of Protonics has decided to introduce an updated system called the Protonics X1 due to the perceived demand from across the United States. If the response to the new introduction of the Protonics X1 is positive, then the company will continue to offer the product.

To ensure this wonderful device will be available in the future, we need to order new systems for our clinics now. The longer I practice the more I see how widespread the clinical application of Protonics is with my patients.

A special program is being offered to Postural Restoration Certified (PRC) and Postural Restoration Trained (PRT) clinicians. It offers reduced price and an Advertising Program to route knee pain patients to your clinics.

A new website has been created where you can place your orders, <http://www.protonicsx1.com/>.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Lisa Bartels
